to present
“Leading Trial Courts in Dangerous Times”
February 19-22
Las Vegas, Nevada

Three Educational Options • Three Registration Choices

Option 1: ICM Seminar Only, February 19-20

Select one of these two-day workshops by registering directly with ICM at www.ncsconline.org or calling (800) 616-6206.

Trial Court Governance and Leadership for Presiding Judges and Court Administrators targets the latest research and knowledge about courts as complex organizations and how to lead them in smarter and more strategic ways. Gordon Griller, ICM’s Director of Trial Court Leadership Programs, will lead the seminar assisted by a faculty of chief judges and court administrators. This is the third in a series of national workshops on this important topic.

Registration Fee: $495 • Location: Golden Nugget Hotel • 40 Person Limit • Lodging: Golden Nugget, $69/night

Achieving Excellence in Courthouse Design: What Court Leaders Need to Know and Do in Planning, Designing, Building, and Modifying Trial Court Facilities will explore space planning and design to create flexible structures that accommodate changing caseloads, customer access, judge and staff growth, technology, security and various adjudication processes. Chang-Ming Yeh, architect and NCSC space planner, and chief judges and court administrators who recently renewed old facilities and build new ones will act as faculty. The new Clark County Regional Justice Facility will be featured.

Registration Fee: $495 • Location: Regional Justice Facility • 40 person limit • Lodging: golden Nugget, $69/night

Option 2: Conference Only, February 20-22

Register for the conference directly with NCMC at www.metrocourts.org or call (757) 259-1841 or (800) 616-6165.

The conference offers nearly 15 hours of educational programming on such topics as the perils of judicial independence, media relations when the court is the story, smart ways to address mounting 2008 budget crises, judicial branch governance, the hidden impact of undocumented immigrants on state courts, strengthening rules on the role and authority of the presiding judge, and leading colleagues in tough circumstances when you’re first among equals. Faculty is drawn from the Justice at Stake Campaign, National Judicial College, American Judicature Society, Reynolds’ Center for Courts and the Media at the University of Nevada, Reno, UNLV School of Law, the Justice Management Institute, and ICM at the National Center for State Courts, as well as various chief judges and court administrators from urban courts.

Registration Fee: $395 • Location: Golden Nugget Hotel • 150 Person Limit • Lodging: Golden Nugget, $69/night

Option 3: ICM Seminar Plus Conference, February 19-22
